

United Way
Greater Toronto

Bathurst-Finch Community Hub

2026

The Neighbourhood of Westminister-Branson

Officially called Westminister-Branson, most local residents know their neighbourhood as Bathurst-Finch. It's a neighbourhood with one of the biggest populations of Filipino people in Toronto and is also home to a large number of Russian seniors. Given that 60,1 per cent of the community are renters this is typically in dwellings apartments of five storeys or more, many residents live in high rises. People often work two or three jobs to make ends meet. Support for women has been identified as a local priority as many face multiple barriers such as high levels of poverty, social isolation and domestic violence, as well as the challenges of being newcomers and adjusting to a new way of life.

26,027 People live in the Westminister-Branson neighbourhood.

15.5% is the unemployment rate for the neighbourhood, compared to 13.8% for the city as a whole.

13.7% of families are living on low incomes.

64.1% of the neighbourhood population has post-secondary education.

20.8% of the neighbourhood population is seniors.

Bathurst-Finch Community Hub

Size: 18,800 Square Feet

Opened: January 2013

Agencies in Hub: Unison Health and Community Services (lead agency)

- Canadian Ukrainian Immigrant Services (CUIAS)
- Downsview Community Legal Services
- Family Service Toronto
- JVS Employment Services
- Kababayan Multicultural Centre
- KCWA Family and Social Services
- North York Community House

Services: Health care services (including access to doctors, nurses, dentists, dieticians and diabetes education, and mental health supports); wellness and social support programs for seniors; legal services, including advice on immigration and citizenship; employment supports and programs; services for newcomers, immigrants, refugees and participants in the Live-in Caregiver Program; community engagement, including, networking and social events, resident leadership, and a variety of support groups.

Since it opened its doors, the Hub has had a significant impact in the community (updated as of Mar. 2026):

